Fund Description

Fund Managers: Helge Skibeli since March 2018
Sam Witherow since February 2019
Michael Rossi since February 2023

JPM Global Equity Income is a core global equity income fund which seeks to outperform the MSCI All Country World Index. The fund is collaboratively managed by the experienced Helge Skibeli, Sam Witherow and newly promoted Michael Rossi, this reflects JP Morgan's efforts to effectively succession plan. The trio lean on the well resourced and extensive analyst pool for ideas, taking those highest conviction ideas and blending within the fund. It's a framework used across JP Morgan funds to maximise their wide team of analysts, which serves investors well on a global equity strategy. The team's philosophy sets out to achieve a healthy income but not to the detriment of capital appreciation. As such the manager seeks to blend 'compounding' companies offering sustainable income with smaller allocations to higher yielding and higher growth companies depending on their macro assessments. The resulting portfolio is sector and regional agnostic, but the manager largely avoids wild divergences from the benchmark, instead preferring stock selection to drive performance.
